DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement (IDS) filed 3/26/2006 is being considered by the examiner.

The information disclosure statement filed 3/26/2008 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2), which requires a legible copy of each cited foreign patent document; each non-patent literature publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and all other information or that portion which caused it to be listed.

Specification

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

The following title is suggested: Transmission joint.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 1, the phrase "segment-like" renders the claim(s) indefinite because the claim(s) include(s) elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "segment-like"), thereby rendering the scope of the claim(s) unascertainable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US patent 6572480, Huang.

In regards to claims 1-34, Huang discloses a transmission joint for transmitting drive between a first and a second shaft comprising a first joint element and a second joint element (14,18), which can be mutually coupled for the transmission of the drive between the shafts, each joint element being rotatable about a respective first or second axis of rotation the first joint element including an approximately spheroidal body formed by a plurality of adjacent segment-like portions having curved external profile surfaces and defining, transverse the first axis, cross-sections of the body with polygonal outlines, the spheroidal body being able to engage a blind axial cavity of the second joint element having a cross-section, transverse the second with a polygonal outline corresponding to the profile of the body and of dimensions such that the first joint element is housed in the second joint element with mutual torsional coupling and a capability for relative inclination of the axes of the joint elements for the transmission of drive between the shafts with non-aligned axes, the transmission joint further including, on the joint means for limiting the relative angular inclination of the axes of rotation of the joint elements, to permit the correct transmission of drive between inclined shafts up to a preselected maximum angular inclination, the first and second joint elements include a first portion and a second portion which are shaped as spherical sectors forming parts of a common spherical profile of preselected radius, a shell element (32,34) with a spherical internal surface being provided for containing the spherical-sector-shaped portions and restraining them with relative coupling of a ball-and-socket type, with a common centre of rotation between the shell and the spherical sectors.

Note, the first and second shafts are not considered part of the claimed invention.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
